

Dean Epperson's

Magical Practice Advice

The Magical Number is Seven

That's Seven Times Correctly, Every Day

Nothing is really learned until it is processed from the unconscious -- Not Mechanical, but Automatic

Practice is not Random. It needs a Master plan -- which should appeal to the lazy!
Plan what you are going to accomplish, and do it. Practice is solving problems. Find the spot that bugs you, and Bugspot it. Analyze, Test, Practice --clear away obstacles.

Three Stages of Learning:

1. Notes and Rhythm.
2. Mostly Technical.
3. Interpretation of Style and Mood.
4. Combo's of 1&2, 2&3, 1&3.

"If I have a week, I learn it in a week. If I have a month, I learn it in a month. If I have a year, I learn it in a year." --When did you plan to have this learned?

Switch Practice Methods

--20 Minute Maximum on one practice method.

